PITTSBURGH, PA (May 5, 2016) — Strong women are in the spotlight as Opera Theater of Pittsburgh announces its 2016 SummerFest season of opera, musical theater, concerts and cabarets, from June 22 through July 24.

Artistic and General Director Jonathan Eaton says: "The season boasts powerful women, from Cleopatra to Carmen, and from waspish Kate to a champagne glass-shattering Silent Woman. Each one of these women is an extraordinary, charismatic, sometimes dominating character. To cope with them we have some pretty strong men, too—from Julius Caesar to Don José to ego-strutting seducer Petruccio. All in all, this makes for a season that promises fireworks of the most magnificent kind – a Diva Riot!"

Celebrating its fifth SummerFest season and Opera Theater of Pittsburgh's 38th year, the festival begins with Carmen the Gypsy in a revival of the company's acclaimed flamenco-style adaptation of the Bizet opera by Jonathan Eaton and Robert Frankenberry. Carmen the Gypsy tours to unique and intimate Pittsburgh spaces of 75-100 seats: Sphinx Cafe, Oakland; Artifacts, West End; and Snuggery Farm, Sewickley Heights, near Wexford, PA, June 22-July 2.

SummerFest continues with Julius Caesar by George Frederic Handel, starring Metropolitan Opera artist Andrey Nemzer and accompanied by Chatham Baroque; The Silent Woman by Richard Strauss, fourth in a series of rarely performed Strauss operas; Kiss Me, Kate by Cole Porter, part of a Classic Broadway series; and Night Caps, five riotous mini-operas commissioned and first presented to sold-out houses at SummerFest 2012. All main stage operas are sung in English with projected English titles.

In addition, concerts feature Marianne Cornetti, Liam Bonner, Andrey Nemzer with The Three (Counter)Tenors, Daphne Alderson, and members of the the SummerFest Young Artist Program.

The main stage festival expands to a new venue, July 7-24, in the beautifully renovated Falk Auditorium at Winchester Thurston School on its City Campus in Shadyside, at 555 Morewood Ave. at Ellsworth, Pittsburgh (15213).

“Winchester Thurston School provides a wonderful new setting for expanded SummerFest programming,” says Eaton who has served as artistic and general director since 1999. “After five successful seasons, we have outgrown our boots – and we are thrilled to be moving to larger facilities and WT’s Falk Auditorium, beautifully renovated by Pittsburgh’s premier theater architect, Al Filoni. This is now perhaps the most attractive medium-sized theater in the city.

“We think our audiences will love the theater’s great acoustics, comfortable seating, easy private parking and proximity to one of Pittsburgh’s liveliest neighborhoods,” Eaton shares.

The school provides multiple spaces for both audience members and the more than 150 singers, instrumentalists and production team members who work virtually round-the-clock for approximately six weeks.

“The move allows us to rehearse five productions simultaneously and to host an ever more substantial Young Artist Program all on the same campus,” says Eaton. “We are so grateful to Winchester Thurston’s principal, staff and board of trustees for welcoming us to this splendid facility.”

SummerFest is now established as the go-to midsummer option for opera, musical theater, and vocal music for a broad regional audience. Eaton conceived the move to a summer season as a way to serve local and regional communities better. “We created SummerFest to fill a void in the summer arts landscape and are thrilled that audiences and critics are supporting us as a cherished addition to the summer cultural calendar.”

THE 2016 SUMMERFEST PRODUCTIONS

SummerFest 2016 runs from June 22 through July 24 with productions designed to appeal to music and theater lovers of all ages, in intimate spaces seating approximately 100 to 300 patrons, and sung in English.

CARMEN THE GYPSY An alluring gypsy. A handsome officer. The world’s most fiery love story, told through some of opera’s favorite music by Georges Bizet. Opera Theater’s acclaimed adaptation sets Carmen’s story in an intimate gypsy tavern where the pulsations of flamenco guitar and dance propel a tragedy of dangerous liaisons. Featuring Kara Cornell reprising her acclaimed title role (2012), James Flora as Don José (also reprising his 2012 role), Christopher Scott as Escamillo, the toreador, and Katie Manukyan as Michaela. Favorite arias include The Habanera, The Toreador Song and The Flower Song.

Directed by Jonathan Eaton and conducted by Robert Frankenberry, SummerFest Music Director.

Richard Strauss's 1935 The Silent Woman (Die schweigsame Frau) is the third ravishing but lesser-known work by this 20th century master in our four-year cycle of Strauss operas, following Opera Theater's celebrated Ariadne on Naxos in 2014 and Capriccio in 2015. The Silent Woman is a Pennsylvania premiere, not having been staged by the leading professional companies here.
